timbre @ the arts house

Sitting by the Singapore river is the House of Timbre, housed in a beautifully restored historical building that used to play host to Singapore's parliamentary meetings. The House of Timbre is nestled in this heritage district of Asian Civilisations Museum (ACM), Victoria Concert Hall & Theatre and even the historical landing site of our nation's founder, Sir Thomas Stamford Raffles.

Within the House of Timbre is Timbre @ The Arts House, a music enclave with a more intimate and cozy ambience. Like its predecessor, Timbre @ The Arts House continues to champion Singapore music and musicians with live music performances nightly. Enjoy a wide range of pastas, pizzas, tapas, salads and against a backdrop of lights of Boat Quay.

The background image shows the interior of a restaurant or lounge. The ceiling is decorated with numerous warm white string lights. The space is furnished with brown leather sofas and round tables. Several people are seated at the tables, some engaged in conversation. The lighting is warm and ambient, creating a cozy atmosphere. The restaurant appears to be located in a historic building, as suggested by the text.
